FUJIMI CORPORATION RECEIVES INTEL'S PRESTIGIOUS SUPPLIER CONTINUOUS QUALITY IMPROVEMENT AWARD

TUALATIN, Oregon, March 22, 2004 -- Fujimi Corporation was named a recipient of Intel Corporation's prestigious 2003 Supplier Continuous Quality Improvement (SCQI) award, Intel's highest honor for its suppliers, for outstanding commitment to quality and performance by suppliers that provide products and services deemed essential to Intel's success. The company was given the award for its efforts in supplying Intel with CMP slurries. Fujimi Corporation and 15 additional SCQI award winners will be honored at a celebration in Burlingame, Calif., on March 23.

"Fujimi Corporation is honored to have been selected by Intel to receive the coveted SCQI award," said Dr. Stuart T. Sawai, chief executive officer of Fujimi Corp. "After having received the PQS award the previous two years, we have been putting forth our best efforts to receive the top award. The results show our dedication to having a world class quality system. Fujimi is committed to developing enabling technologies for the advancement of the Semiconductor industry."

"We congratulate Fujimi Corporation for winning Intel's Supplier Continuous Quality Improvement Award," said Ken David, Intel director, Components Research. "Fujimi's continuous improvement program is responsive and proactive, addressing Intel's need for technology leadership, consistent quality, availability, total cost of ownership, and customer service. Fujimi is truly a benchmark when it comes to the quality of Chemical Mechanical Planarization materials."

The SCQI awards are part of Intel's Supplier Continuous Quality Improvement process, which encourages Intel's key suppliers to strive for excellence and continuous improvement. To qualify for SCQI status, suppliers must score at least 95 percent on a report card that assesses performance and ability to meet cost, quality, availability, delivery, technology and responsiveness goals. Additional information about the SCQI program is available at <http://supplier.intel.com/quality/>.

Intel also will recognize SCQI award winners today with an advertisement in the U.S., Europe and Asian editions of the Wall Street Journal.
